MUSIC

“Music is out-of-this-world!”

Good Schools Guide

Find your stage

With around 480 lessons delivered every week, we work to deepen creativity, musical awareness and technical prowess in all of our pupils, encouraging each individual to find their passions.

From Chapel Choir and Symphony Orchestra to chamber music ensembles, pop, rock and jazz groups, there are unique opportunities for every type of musician to feel at home.

Music Week is a celebration of inclusivity and creativity, showing the extraordinary depth of musical talent across the school and there are regular showcase concerts throughout the year.

From their very first lessons in Lower School, a pupil is given the required contact and opportunities to find their passions and hone their skills.

MUSIC

Developing passions

Our music teachers have a wealth of experience in harnessing potential and bringing out the best in our musicians.

Many of them have won competitions, leading choirs and ensembles to national success while others have had music published by the likes of Boosey & Hawkes, Oxford University Press and Universal Music.

We also have a pool of peripatetic staff who provide specialist support for the music department. Many of these musicians have performed in some of the most prestigious concert halls across the world.

With wide-ranging expertise, the music team are able to provide support which spans an array of musical genres. Pupils are able to try their hand at something new or delve deeper into an area which is of particular interest.

Masterclasses are held with some of the world's finest performers, such as the Škampa Quartet, but pupils are also encouraged to think beyond their immediate musical and intellectual horizons.

With the appropriate support, challenging our musicians is a key aspect in building their confidence and aspirations.

MUSIC

Nurturing talent

Music scholars enjoy a high-performance programme which includes expert coaching, masterclasses and progress meetings alongside performance opportunities in some of the world's finest venues. They are expected to organise and develop their own small ensembles which allows their creativity to blossom during their time here.

We encourage our most gifted pupils to combine their studies at Haileybury with sessions at the Royal College, Royal Academy, and Guildhall.

A number of pupils are selected to become members of such groups as the National Youth Orchestra and National Youth Choir of Great Britain. We offer music scholarships at 11+, 13+ and at 16+ entry with many of our finest musicians going on to further their musical education at either college or university. The academic department is strong – its results are excellent and the teaching of composition is exceptional.

Inspiring environment

The recently extended Music School combines individual practice rooms with larger performance areas.

Teaching suites and recording studios are fitted with high-tech equipment which provide a truly exceptional music facility.

The school is well-equipped with an excellent Steinway concert grand piano and a superb modern Klais chapel organ.

Haileybury boasts an enormous and active Chapel where daily services are supported by beautiful music from our choirs and instrumentalists. The Chapel is very much at the heart of our community.

The intimate Bradby Hall, with its red brick, stone dressings and tiled roof, is the perfect foil for the grandeur of Big School – the venue for our major music concerts which often include full orchestra and multiple choirs.

A world of opportunity

The Lower School and Senior School Choirs regularly reach the final of the Barnardo's National Choral Competition at Royal Festival Hall.

We have held services at St Stephen Walbrook in London, Munich's Nymphenburg Palace and Salzburg Cathedral.

There has been a huge surge in numbers joining the ensembles, with over 50 pupils in the Lower School Choir and Chapel Choir reaching a record number of 75.

More than 1,000 people enjoy Proms in the Park every year while tours to Germany, France and Austria give pupils a taste of music on the continent.

Our spellbinding concert, The Dream of Gerontius, featured more than 100 pupils alongside Old Haileyburian and acclaimed opera singer, Rosie Aldridge.

Our range of concerts each year often includes challenging productions, chosen to stretch and develop our most gifted and able musicians.

DRAMA

“Drama is renowned for bringing a whole host of pupils out of their shells.”

Time to shine

Drama at Haileybury offers an exceptional opportunity for self-expression, communication and reflection. There are two Showcase events across the year for pupils to gain experience of performing in public and for their parents and peers to see them shine.

Pupils work towards Bronze or Silver Arts Awards through their co-curricular activities but for Middles and Fifths (Years 10 and 11) who are serious about performing and have shown potential, they are offered a place on our two-year High Performance Drama \(HPD\) programme.

The bespoke sessions explore skills beyond the GCSE Drama curriculum such as filmmaking, screen writing, screen acting, audition techniques, monologue preparation and directing for the stage.

Pupils also have the opportunity to take LAMDA lessons, working with an excellent team of tutors through Exam Stars at Haileybury who provide first-class tuition on a solo, paired or group basis. Pupils can participate in acting, improvisation, public speaking and Shakespeare examinations. In recent years, all grades awarded have been at either merit or distinction.

Legendary British playwright, director and Old Haileyburian Sir Alan Ayckbourn lends his name to our Ayckbourn Theatre, home of our in-school productions.

“It isn’t necessary to be studying drama to take part.
For those who want to help out backstage, that is also an option.”

Behind the scenes

The existing theatre workshop has been refitted and renovated with new equipment introduced on a regular basis. Various drama days allow visiting schools to sample the Haileybury experience and enjoy masterclass sessions.

The Lower School Drama Club gives pupils the opportunity to hone their skills as they work towards public performances. In addition to acting, pupils of all ages are able to develop a range of skills such as theatre work, prop making, filmmaking, lighting and sound.

Haileybury TV (HTV) is a web platform for pupil-led film. Alongside industry professionals, they engage in film production, creation and editing at a range of levels, taking in film theory and cinematic skills.

Pupils participate in short films documenting and celebrating school life. They also work on artistic short films, newsroom-style bulletins and live streaming sport.

Available through activities, clubs and as part of the academic electives programme, the future of filmmaking at Haileybury is very exciting. We have capacity for two independent film units to operate at the same time.

Our experienced drama staff have completed Arts Awards training and have overseen a wide range of successful productions from our very own Ayckbourn Theatre to the 400-seater Hertford Theatre. They use their expertise to ensure that every pupil is flourishing in a role which suits their skills.

DRAMA

“The shows are amazingly high standard.”

Breadth and depth

Some of the finest performances from Haileybury pupils take place on a smaller stage. Our pupils have tackled gritty scripts which feature social realism and psychological thrillers in more intimate productions.

DNA was a powerful look at social hierarchy, Mine was a haunting drama about adoption and A View from the Bridge was a play of tragic love and obsession.

These productions allow pupils to fully immerse themselves in storylines which pose challenging questions. It also provides opportunities to engage in captivating dialogue and gripping monologues. It is through these experiences that pupils hone more specialist drama skills and techniques.

DRAMA

Hitting the big time

Pupils, staff and parents eagerly anticipate the drama spectacular which is performed at Hertford Theatre each year. The cast make us smile, they make us laugh and – without fail – the audience are richly entertained.

Shows have included classics such as Frankenstein, Fiddler on the Roof, Treasure Island and The Drowsy Chaperone which were widely considered the stand-out highlight of our events calendar.

This is a time to shine for some of our most gifted performers who steal the show in front of hundreds of onlookers. But it is also a time for teamwork as a group of unsung heroes work tirelessly behind the scenes to ensure everything runs like clockwork – gaining valuable production skills along the way.

Set design, lighting, sound, costume and make-up are all delivered to an exceptional standard to create unforgettable productions.
